

Two Poems after Robert Lax

By Peggy Garrison

Anchors

anchors
weigh
tons

ancho rites
a
way
pray

anchors
hold

ancho
rites
stabl
ize

anchor
ess
bless

Rain

rain
fall
on us
all

rain
fall
on
the cab
in
roof

rain
fall
on
the
still lake

list en

the rain
mot or
is
work ing

on
us

Peggy Garrison

Peggy Garrison earned her MA in creative writing from the City College of New York, teaches creative writing workshops at New York University, and is a writer in residence for Teachers & Writers Collaborative. Her work has appeared in numerous literary magazines, including The Literary Review, Beloit Fiction Journal, South Dakota Review, Global City Review, Mudfish, Slant, and Poetry New York. She is author of three volumes of verse, Charing Cross Bridge and Other Poems (1998), With Candor (with David Quintavalle) (1998) and Ding the Bell (illustrated by Lesley Heathcote) (1999).